

Travelling by train from Germany.

The highly comfortable ICE trains of the Deutsche Bahn (DB) take travellers quickly straight to all major Swiss cities. Berne, Thun, Interlaken, Zurich and Chur are served on the Rhein axis via Basel. The high-standard InterCity and EuroCity trains operate direct services between Munich/Stuttgart/Hamburg and Zurich. More than 40 times a day, the DB fleet sets direct course for its neighbouring Alpine nation.

Travelling by train from Austria.

The fleet of the Austrian Federal Railways (ÖBB) transports passengers to Switzerland in a swift and most comfortable manner. Night trains link the old imperial city of Vienna, as well as Graz and Villach, to Zurich, which allows passengers to arrive the next morning in a completely rested state. Also, ÖBB's premium rail service "Railjet" takes travellers from Vienna, Salzburg or Innsbruck to Zurich in 2-hour-intervals on a daily basis. As usual, perfect connections from Zurich hub to the rest of Switzerland are guaranteed. The EuroCity trains from Graz or Bregenz offer panoramic coaches in 1st class.

Travelling by train from Italy.

Indulging in wanderlust and taking a break from everyday routine – from neighbouring Italy, many of the most scenic Swiss cities are only a comfortable train ride away. With the commissioning of the Gotthard Base Tunnel, guests now arrive in Switzerland in significantly shorter time and an even more relaxed state. From Milan, it actually takes travellers less than 3 1/2 hours to get to Zurich.
