Peak Walk by Tissot, Glacier 3000, Vaud

Mountain highlights.

Peak Walk by Tissot.

Walking over the Peak Walk by Tissot – a 107-metre-long suspension bridge – is an adventure in its own right. This suspension bridge – unique in the world – connects two mountain peaks. On the way, guests marvel at no fewer than 24 peaks of over 4,000 metres, among which are Eiger, Mönch, Jungfrau, Matterhorn and Mont Blanc.

Panorama gondola.

Glacier 3000 is one of the best accessible glaciers of Switzerland. The panorama gondola can transport up to 125 people from 1,500 to 3,000 metres a.s.l. in one go. The ride takes a mere 15 minutes – that's how quickly guests reach this Swiss glacier.

Gstaad – connecting to the GoldenPass line.

Comfortable and with lovely views to the Glacier 3000: on the GoldenPass train to Gstaad and then by bus in only 30 minutes to the cableway station. Thus, even the arrival turns into a great experience. Incidentally, lockers are available for the luggage at Gstaad station.

Activities in lofty heights.

This mountain beckons with numerous outdoor adventures. Plenty of activities such as the Peak Walk, the View Point, the Ice Express chair lift and the Fun Park (year-round sledging in the snow) as well as the Glacier Walk are included in the cableway ticket.

Unique highlights.

The experience on the mountain can be individualised by adding further activities: dog sled ride – a singular adventure on a 400-metre-long run; Alpine Coaster – Europe's highest rollercoaster (only in summer); or a 15-minute snow bus tour on the glacier (upon request).
